HAD NO HOME.

Ragged and Hungry Boy Appears at the Police Office.

A ragged, illiterate and hungry looking boy of 16 years, who gave his name as Robert Klein, made his second appearance at the police station last evening and informed Chief Russell that he was out of employment, that he had no home, was hungry and wanted to be taken care of.

The boy stated when he first saw Chief Russell that he was a waif, that he had joined the Robinson circus three weeks ago and had been working for them until they got to this city. Chief Russell asked the management of the show about the boy and the circus manager stated that Tuesday stated that the boy's name was not on the pay roll. Klein then fell in with a farmer who stated that if he came to his farm he would give him employment. The boy went but found the farmer had hired another boy. He returned to this city last evening and strangers gave him his supper. He then went to the police station and Chief Russell sent him to Sheriff Horton's abode for the night. This morning some disposition will be made of him.

The boy is about 16 years of age, is in need of a bath and his clothes are very shabby. He stated that his mother and father were both dead and that, as far as known, he had no living relative. When he was a child he was put in the Warehouse Point institution at Hartford, Conn., and remained there until three years ago, when he was turned adrift, the management of the institution telling him he was old enough to work for himself. He claims to have shifted about during this time, sleeping in barns or any place he could find.

CHARGED WITH BURGLARY.

Arthur Prince in Jail in Connection with Robbery at Kennedy's Store.

Arthur Prince, colored, was arrested yesterday morning on a charge of having burglarized J. J. Kennedy's store on Cherry street during the circus parade Tuesday morning and stealing $165 from the safe. Prince is about 25 years of age and has been employed by C. C. Niles, the truckman. In the course of his work he has frequently been to Kennedy's store and delivered goods, thereby becoming familiar with the premises. On the morning of the burglary and at a time soon after it was committed Prince was seen in the yard in the rear of Kennedy's store and it is alleged that he was in company with others who were drinking. While the officers were at Kennedy's store making a further investigation of the affair Prince came in and he was arrested on suspicion. Later in the day a warrant was made out against him by State's Attorney Sherman.

The actions of Prince were traced by the officers to the fact that he saw Prince leave the yard at the rear of Kennedy's store during the morning. It was found that he had bought a suit of clothes but an order for that amount had been given him by Mr. Niles. Prince also bought a ring but as that cost only ten cents he did not give anything against him. Practically nothing of value was found on his person at the jail.

The officers made a minute inspection of the premises at Kennedy's store. The watch dog was there but he paid no attention to the officers, even when they approached the safe so the theory that the burglar must have been some one known to the animal received a severe setback, as the dog had never seen the officers before.

Yesterday afternoon a search warrant was signed by Justice DeBerville and Sheriff Horton went to Prince's home and searched for the stolen money but was unable to find anything. Prince will probably have a hearing today.

A SUMMER RECESS.

State Tuberculosis Commission Will Suspend Meetings until September.

The State tuberculosis commission has no plan of work mapped out for the summer months but according to Henry Ballard, one of the members, the commissioners will speak whenever called upon to do so.

Mr. Ballard said yesterday that the commissioners had a great amount of work to accomplish before December but owing to the fact that farmers would be very busy during the next two months it was thought best not to hold meetings unless requests were received. After September 1 the commissioners will arrange a programme and every county in the State will be visited at least once and in some several meetings will probably be held.

The result of the tuberculosis exhibit here at the school of instruction for health officers was satisfactory as it created an unusual degree of interest among the health officers and the commission believes that the health officers can do much to instruct the people in regard to tuberculosis and thus aid the commission in its work.

PRESIDENT'S DAY.

Theodore Roosevelt Honored Guest at America's Oldest Seat of Learning.

Cambridge, Mass., June 28.—Although nominally celebrating with his classmates the 25th anniversary of the class of '80, from Harvard University, President Roosevelt to-day was the honored guest of America's most ancient seat of learning.

He entered heartily into the spirit of commencement day, and played a leading part in all the functions incident to the occasion.

Following the commencement exercises, the President made three public addresses, one at the Harvard union, a second and the principal one of his tour, at the annual alumni dinner in Memorial hall, and a third from the steps of Memorial hall to the members of the alumni who could not gain admittance to the Memorial hall exercises.

The President did not arise until about eight o'clock. At that hour a visitor was waiting to see him and he was escorted to breakfast. President Roosevelt appeared on the piazza of Bishop Lawrence's house, where a caller was sitting, to shake hands and give a cordial greeting to Mary A. Taylor, a colored woman who did the President's washing while he was at college.

Breakfast was served by a band of music accompanied by the National Lancers and a few moments later under the escort of troops Lieutenant-Governor Russell representing the Commonwealth arrived at the residence of the President. After an exchange of brief greetings the President and Mr. Russell proceeded to the ceremony at which the President received the keys of the city from the Mayor and the Secretary of the Navy John D. Long.

After greetings were exchanged the entire procession started for Sanders Theatre, at 9:55. President Roosevelt and President Eliot headed the procession, and were followed by Secretary of War and Secretary of the Navy, and other members of the government's staff, members of the faculty of the university, seniors in the academic department and other members of the graduating classes in the professional and scientific departments. On the march to Memorial hall, the President headed the alumni procession. The class of '80 followed the presidential party and other graduates came after. Headed by a band, the procession proceeded across the yard, and entered Memorial hall to the strains of "Marry Owen," the President's favorite air.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

In his address the President said: A great university like this has two special functions. The first is to produce a small number of men, without the highest rank, a small number of men who, in science and literature, or in art, will do productive work of the first class. The second is to send out into the world a very large number of men who never could achieve, and who ought not to try to achieve, such a position in the field of scholarship, but who are to be the backbone of every other form of activity; and who should go out from our doors with the balanced development of body, of mind, and above all, of character, which shall fit them to do work both honorable and efficient.

In speaking of sports the President endorsed healthy sports, but condemned brutality in any game. He said it was a bad thing for any college man to regard sport as the serious business of life and a worse thing to permit college sport to become tainted with professionalism. He added:

"I think our effort should be to minimize rather than to increase that kind of love of athletics which manifests itself, not in joining in the athletic sports, but in crowding by tens of thousands to see other people indulge in them. It is a far better thing for our colleges to have the average student interested in some form of athletic activity, than to have a mass to see other people do their athletics for them."

TWO MILLION FOR YALE.

Rockefeller Gives Half and Income in New Haven for Current Expenses.

New Haven, June 28.—President Hadley of Yale announced at the alumni dinner to-day that a gift of one million had been made recently by John Rockefeller. President Hadley said that two million dollars in all has been given to the university within a comparatively recent time, the other million being subscribed by graduates in sums varying from $50,000 to $250,000.

President Hadley said that the "only condition of any kind underlying Mr. Rockefeller's gift is that the money is to be invested in income producing securities and preserved inviolate as endowment for the institution, the annual income only to be used for current expenses."

WAS IT WRONG.

We kissed. I asked was it bold? For lips to meet lips in a loving fold? To linger in bliss and drink from her lips? The breath that was sweeter than sweet honey drips? I ask, was it wrong to have her fair face? Pressed closely to mine in a rapturous embrace? Was it wrong for us to make loving so free—When I am most fondly and she is but three? —Milwaukee Sentinel.

In view of the approaching centennial celebration and of the fact that the city has just completed ten years of corporate existence, this census of the city seemed advisable. The council expressed itself as opposed to including religious preference in the questions to be asked by the enumerators.

LIQUOR RETURNED.

No Evidence That It Was Intended for Illegal Sale.

The liquor which was seized Tuesday at the Hotel Champlain by Deputy Sheriff Baylin in whose hands a search warrant had been placed, was returned yesterday by Judge Mower in city court. The liquor was found in the room which was formerly used as a bar and Joseph Mitchell, who was arrested as the owner of the stuff, claimed it was there when the bar closed and that he had failed to remove it. He claimed he had not sold liquor since the bar was closed by reason of the expiration of his license, and as there was no evidence that he had or that the stuff seized was there for sale the liquor was returned and Mr. Mitchell was discharged.

Charles Aschlin, who was arrested a few days ago by the police, pleaded not guilty yesterday to a charge of intoxication. He offered no defense and was convicted being fined $5 and costs of $16.85. He took an appeal but failed to furnish bail. He was also charged with breach of the peace, caused by violent speech in the presence of Charles Spaulding. That case was continued until Saturday.
